TUESDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 9.

A SANCTIFIED WOMAN.—In a camp meeting in New York State a woman related her experiences in giving up certain articles of ornament and gay attire that she had loved. She said that at first she resolved to wear no more artificial flowers, gay colored ribbons, handsome silks, cor ornaments, nor brooches, but one idol remained. It was her wedding ring. At last she resolved to throw this away, too, and when she did it the blessing of sanctification came.

The Methodist says: As she stood in the audience, relating the great change that had come over her, she displayed an immensity of false hair, wound up on the back of her head, upon which was mounted a topknot of a hat, neither protection from sun or cold, nor ornament to behold. She disclosed beneath a half cast off shawl a corseted waist, which was reduced to such diminutive proportions as to appear painfully abnormal. She supported padings, puffs, panner and pin-back, and a dress skirt sadly bedabbled to a depth of the several inches which it dragged upon the ground.

As she sat down after her testimony and exhortation to erring sisters to renounce all pomp and glory of the world, she plied her fan and painted very like a ball room belle who had valved too long and was dressed too tightly to breathe with ease. When at the close of the meeting the woman walked away, she had a parasol, a fan and a hyacinth to hold in one hand, and the other was employed in gathering and holding the front breadth of her skirts high enough to enable her to step, while the limit of her mincing gait was determined by her contracted pin back and stilted boot-heels. And away she went, a sanctified woman.
